Light blanket of snow causes no major problems in county

Although only a thin veil of snow fell on Fayette County Sunday evening, the freezing rains which preceded the snowfall caused slippery road conditions throughout the area.

County roads remained slippery in spots and side streets in the city were still hazardous Monday although crews from all three street and road departments were busy working to improve them.

City street department superintendent Bill Duncan had one salt truck operating from 6 until 10 p.m. Sunday to help clear the major access streets. Work on lesser thoroughfares began Monday.

County roads received their salting Monday as county crews were out in force. Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer, said the men will concentrate the salt-spreading operations on the hills and curves first.

Some school buses ran slightly behind normal schedules this morning, but no great hardship was created for the Miami Trace School District which had a normal class schedule. Washington C. H. schools were closed, but the weather had no part in the closing. No classes were scheduled, and Washington C. H. teachers used the day to prepare semester grades.

Eleven trucks from the Ohio Department of Transportation garages in Washington C. H. and Jeffersonville were out during the night. The trucks rolled out about 4 p.m. and continued working throughout the night.

Gene Fitzpatrick, state highway garage superintendent, said the major highways were in good shape, but still had patches of snow and ice. Three trucks continued the clearing operations Monday.

Rain and light snow fell Sunday as the temperatures hovered around the freezing mark. The low Sunday was 29 degrees. As evening approached, however, the mercury dropped, and the county recorded a low of 15 degrees early Monday.

Precipitation of .19 inches was recorded over the weekend, resulting in just over an inch of snow, according to Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C. H. weather observer.

Arab terrorists leave airport after unsuccessful hijack try

PARIS (AP) — Three Arab terrorists left Paris in a French plane today after an unsuccessful attempt to attack an Israeli jetliner, a gun battle with police and an overnight siege during which they held 10 persons hostage in a restroom at Orly Airport.

The Israeli plane was not damaged, and the hostages were released unharmed. But 21 persons, including one of the terrorists, were reported injured in the gunfight that raged for 15 minutes Sunday afternoon in a crowded concourse of the airport terminal.

Eight of the wounded were reported in serious condition.

The terrorists' destination was not immediately known.

Previous reports said there were two terrorists and from three to seven hostages. But witnesses at the airport said three terrorists and eight hostages came out of the restroom, the gunmen with stockings masking their faces and the hostages with bandages covering their eyes.

Two other hostages, a French woman and her 3½-year-old daughter, were freed earlier this morning when the terrorists began negotiating with the Egyptian ambassador to France, Naguib Kadry, as intermediary.

The identity of the gunmen was still unclear. Police at first said a note in which they demanded an escape plane was signed "Mohammed Boudia Squad," named for an Algerian militant murdered by Israeli agents in Paris in 1973. Later reports said the note was unsigned.

In Beirut, Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization condemned the attack, and the organization's representative in Paris, Ezzedine el Kadak, said the gunmen would be punished if they were handed over to the PLO. But Israel's ambassador to France, Asher Ben Natan, brushed aside the PLO denial, saying: "These organizations change their names, but they are all the same people. Sometime they call themselves Black September and sometime the revolutionary Arab Youth and sometime the Mohammed Boudia Squad. But they are all the same."

It was the second attempted attack on an Israeli plane at Orly within a week. Two men fired two bazooka shells at an El Al jetliner as it was departing last Monday but missed and hit a Yugoslav jet and an airport building. Three persons were wounded. The gunmen escaped and later the Mohammed Boudia Squad claimed it had made the attack.

El Al's flight 418 from Paris to Tel Aviv had just pulled away from the boarding area Sunday afternoon with 222 persons aboard. One of the terrorists emerged onto a terrace of the terminal building and prepared to fire — possibly with a bazooka — on the plane about 1,000 feet away.

A policeman saw the gunman and opened fire with a submachine gun. The Arab rushed back into the terminal, throwing two grenades behind him to delay the pursuit. The gunmen and the police opened fire, and screams echoed through the crowded concourse as bullets shattered windows and people dived for cover.

As police blocked all exits, the terrorists began grabbing hostages and retreated down a corridor toward the restrooms.

The El Al plane flew on to Tel Aviv with those aboard unaware of the events on the ground until an hour after departure.

Approval of resolution stalled

Disaster agency hits major snag

By SANDY FOSSON

The Fayette County Disaster Services Agency hit a major snag Monday as only two township trustees met with director Ralston M. Smith and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners to approve a revised resolution for a county-wide disaster services agency.

The meeting, which had been devised to include representatives from all 10 county township trustees, the four incorporated villages of Fayette County, officials of Washington C.H. and county commissioners, resulted in the postponement of further action by Smith until at least nine of the representative groups approved the need for a county disaster services agency.

SMITH REPORTED he had received signatures from five of the 16 representatives, including the city of Washington C.H., to approve the revised resolution for a disaster services agency. The resolution updates a previous resolution adopted by county groups in 1968 by incorporating and establishing a county agency and emergency operating center.

Although the 1968 resolution received the approval of all county groups and the agency was merely "a rescue unit," two representatives from the Union Township trustees attending the Monday meeting said they would not sign the resolution because they felt they would be "signing a blank check" for the disaster services agency.

The trustees did not agree with an article of the resolution which would require them to pay the amount assessed to their township by the disaster services executive committee for services expended by the agency during a state of emergency.

Smith noted that the local agency had required only three tenths of one cent per person in each township for disaster services in the past. He added that state and federal recommendations for entities of less than 50,000 in population spending of 30 cents per person in the county for disaster services.

He recommended to the county commissioners that they proceed with approving the resolution so he could progress with the program and prepare a tentative budget that must be sub-

N.Y. bank merger averts major loss

By TERENCE HUNT

Associated Press Writer
Faced with "probable failure" and a lack of "public confidence," the Security National Bank of Long Island, 53rd largest in the nation, has been sold to another New York bank.

Security National, of Hempstead, N.Y., said in a statement Sunday that its troubles resulted from a loss of investor confidence, which the bank said stemmed from the general economic decline and the failure of another Long Island bank, the Franklin National, last year.

"This gave rise to rumors and speculative, damaging news stories about the bank which caused substantial withdrawals of deposits and seriously impaired the bank's ability to obtain borrowings from its normal sources," Security National said.

Banking sources said Security National had suffered losses in loans to builders on New York's Long Island, where the construction industry is depressed following a building boom during the 1960s.

Franklin National's failure followed heavy foreign exchange losses. Franklin National at one time was the nation's 20th largest bank and its failure was the largest in the nation's history.

The Federal Reserve Board in Washington, which authorized the sale of Security National without stockholder approval, said the comptroller of the currency had found "external forces and public confidence have adversely affected the operations and condition of Security to the point that an emergency exists."

Comptroller of the Currency James E. Smith declared an emergency at Security National and asked immediate action "to prevent a probable failure of that bank."

Security National, with deposits of $1.3 billion and 90 offices on Long Island and 15 in New York City, was purchased by the Chemical Bank for $40 million. Chemical, one of the nation's 10 largest banks, will assume all assets and most liabilities of the smaller bank.

In another economic development Sunday, the administration stepped up its campaign for President Ford's anti-recession program as three officials made public appearances urging congressional approval of the package.

Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton said there are areas of the program where Ford is willing to compromise with Congress but urged: "Let's start with the President's program. Let's get the President's program through the Congress, and then if it needs adjusting, let's adjust it."

Coffee Break . .

"IF YOU'RE gonna come, come healthy!"

Fayette Memorial Hospital administrator Robert L. Kunz has announced the enforcement of a "visitation restriction" policy at the hospital. . . . Under the policy, only healthy members of a patient's immediate family will be granted visitation privileges. . . .

Kunz explained many of the hospital staff are coming down with the flu, which is being passed by the many visitors the hospital has everyday. . . .

The restriction, which was enforced last year at this time, will become effective immediately. . . .

THE FAYETTE Auxiliary No. 423 Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles is making police-type whistles available as a means of protection for women and elderly residents in the Washington C. H. area. . . .

The distribution is part of an international Eagles campaign to "Blow the Whistle on Crime. . . ." A blast on the whistle in case of attack by a mugger, rapist, purse snatcher or other street criminal is almost certain to make him come to a quick stop, and will draw immediate attention from persons in the vicinity. . . .

The program is spreading rapidly throughout the U.S. and Canada, and was set in motion by an allocation of $25,000 made by the Eagles at its 1974 international convention in Milwaukee, Wis., last summer. . . .

Many cases in widely-scattered areas have demonstrated the value of "blowing the whistle on crime." Whistle blasts have scared prowlers, frightened assailants in the streets and have summoned help in cases where elderly persons met with accidents in falls in their homes. . . .

Mrs. Jeanie Minshall is in charge of the program in Washington C. H. . . .

Morton, appearing on ABC's "Issues and Answers," said congressional criticism of Ford's proposals is something to be expected in response to bold suggestions.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," declared that he will fight for Ford's program despite his dislike of the large deficits included in them.

FBI office provides tip

Armed robbery suspect apprehended by deputy

Acting on a tip from the Cincinnati office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department Saturday apprehended a man wanted for a variety of charges including armed robbery in Maryland.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson said Michael A. Alexander, 29, of Loveland, is being held in the Fayette County jail for federal authorities.

Thompson said the suspect is wanted on several other charges, according to a computer check conducted here. In addition to the charge of burglary and armed robbery, Alexander is wanted for failure to appear in court and unlawful flight to avoid confinement. A warrant has also been issued from Virginia charging the suspect with sodomy. Thompson said charges of being a fugitive will be filed early this week.

At 5:44 p.m. Saturday the sheriff's department received a call from the FBI office in Cincinnati, saying that the suspect might be driving south from Columbus on I-71 in a 1966 model Buick.

According to the report, at 6:06 p.m. Deputy Robert A. Russell spotted a vehicle matching the description of the one the suspect was driving while on routine patrol in the vicinity of I-71 and Ohio 41-N.

Deputy Russell said when he stopped the vehicle, the suspect attempted to give a false identification. A call was then placed by deputy Terry Summers to the FBI office in Cincinnati and an accurate description of the subject was obtained.

Alexander was arrested by Russell with assistance from Thompson and Sgt. John Emrick and removed to the Fayette County jail.

Discount stores under new rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Discount stores in Ohio were to be required starting today to sell at least 75 per cent of their merchandise at a minimum of 10 per cent below regular market price under new consumer protection regulation.

However, implementation of the regulation could be delayed up to 60 days because of an appeal filed by members of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants.

The state rule attaches strict definitions to out-of-store sales promotion terms like discount, bargain and on sale. The key requirement is that a "meaningful reduction" must be made when sales are advertised.

The regulation was filed with the Secretary of State's office Jan. 9 by outgoing officials of the Consumer Protection Division in the state Department of Commerce.

A spokesman for the Council of Retail Merchants complained that the regulation had been rewritten and expanded since public hearings in early December.

The appeal seeks amendment of the regulation. State Commerce Director J. Gordon Peltier was expected to rule today whether the rule effective date was to be delayed under provisions of the state Administrative Procedures Rules.

Peltier also has the authority to amend or revise the regulation 90 days after it takes effect.

The new commerce director said he hadn't had a chance to fully review the rule, but intended to study it and discuss the matter with Rhodes.

Diane Liff, the former chief of the Consumer Protection Division who presided over the hearings, said the "reason for the length (of the regulation) is that we supplied many examples as a guide for the industry so there wouldn't be any question."

She said that "one or two new provisions" were added at the request of retailers during the hearings and one rule was dropped because of "very strong objections."

The discarded provision required items selling for less than $100 and listed as "on sale" to be reduced by at least 10 per cent. The substituted rule retains the 10 per cent standard but adds the alternative permitting an "on sale" listing if the amount of the reduction is advertised by percentage or dollar savings.

David Snell, an executive of the Gold Circle Discount stores, said "we weren't alarmed but we were surprised" at apparent changes in the original draft of the regulation.

"It is our opinion that the regulations really offer no herculean challenge for us and the terminology of discount is readily met," Snell said. "More than 75 per cent of what we carry is discounted."

McGovern still convinced he was right on economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than two years after his overwhelming defeat for the Presidency, Sen. George McGovern is more convinced than ever that he was "right from the start" about the nation's major problems.

And with the United States in its worst economic slump in four decades, the South Dakota Democrat says, "I really believe that the ideas I stood for in 1972 have now arrived as far as the American people are concerned."

In simplest terms, those ideas are a sharp cut in military spending, fundamental tax reform and major public employment programs to guarantee every American a job.

McGovern hopes for action in all three areas by the new, heavily Democratic 94th Congress despite what he feels is an "inadequate program" proposed by President Ford.

Beyond that, he says the Democrats must as a party take an uncompromising stand on major economic and social issues in order to recapture the presidency in 1976.

That was the theme of his recent speech to the party's Kansas City miniconvention, where McGovern received a rousing reception, and of his comments in a relaxed, hour-long interview in his Senate office here last week.

The senator said his relaxed mood these days stems from his decision against another attempt for the presidency.

"Just making a decision not to run for anything gets a great burden off your shoulders," said McGovern, who won a third term by about 15,000 votes last November to climax a six-year stretch marked by two Senate races sandwiched around his four-year effort to win the presidency.

"I don't think that we can beat Ford with somebody who is afraid to take a strong stand on central issues," he said.

"I was both concerned and somewhat discouraged to see a number of Democrats trying to find the center of the road at Kansas City," he went on. "If that's what we're looking for, let's leave Ford in."

Vision, perception topic for public meet Tuesday

Problems of vision and perception which affect school achievement will be the topic for a special public meeting in Washington C. H. Tuesday night. The program, which will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Belle-Aire Elementary School, is being sponsored by the Title I program in the Washington C. H. School District.

Mrs. Ruth Domenico, Title I instructor in Washington C. H. city schools, said all residents of both the Washington C. H. and Miami Trace school districts are urged to attend. The speaker for the program will be Dr. J. Douglas Levy, a Centerville optometrist.

A native of Dayton, Dr. Levy is a graduate of Ohio State University. He is a member of several professional associations including the American Optometric Association, the Ohio Optometric Association, the Miami Valley Society of Optometrists, Epsilon Psi Epsilon, the professional optometric fraternity, and a diplomat of the national board of optometry. Dr. Levy has had articles regarding visual acuity and ophthalmic lens design published and has been a speaker before the American Academy of Optometry.

Driver displays stolen license

A South Solon area man has been arrested by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and charged with possession of a stolen driver's license.

Sheriff Don Thompson said Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks stopped a car driven by Ervin Miller, 33, Rt. 1, South Solon, at 1:10 a.m. Saturday on E. Court Street in Washington C. H. and reportedly noticed irregularities on the driver's license handed him by Miller.

A check with Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Columbus, disclosed that the license was one of several stolen from the bureau's Columbus warehouse. Miller was charged with possessing

Five county residents named to manpower service council

COLUMBUS — The appointment of five Washington C.H. residents to the regional manpower service council from a five-county area of central Ohio was announced today by the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development.

Appointed were John Borrowman, Fayette County Community Action Commission planner, as chairman of the five-county council; Washington C.H. City Manager Dan Wolford, representing elected officials; Mrs. Gayle Kelly, manager of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services office here, the agency representative; David Six, of the First National Bank in Washington C.H., business representative, and Mrs. Andrew S. (Mae) Graham, 602 Carolyn Road, private citizen representative.

The council of citizens will begin a training session Tuesday in preparation for their work to determine the spending of U.S. Department of Labor manpower funds for fiscal year 1976.

The local council was formulated in a move that will enable local citizens to make decisions on the manner in which tax dollars are spent in their area of the state.

Price-fixing trial delayed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The price-fixing trial of four major corporate suppliers of homebuilding products and three executives, scheduled to begin today, has been postponed until next month.

U.S. District Court Judge Hubert I. Teitelbaum granted the delay over the weekend. On Thursday, nine other defendants in the anti-trust case had pleaded no contest to charges that they conspired to rig prices in the gypsum industry.

At the time, attorneys for the remaining defendants asked that the no-contest pleas be kept secret so as not to influence jurors.

Teitelbaum denied the request, calling the ability of the press to report on judicial proceedings "a primary factor in maintaining the operation of our federal courts at the high level we have traditionally enjoyed."

However, he approved the delay so that potential jurors would have no reason to remember the no-contest pleas and possibly be influenced in their judgement of the remaining defendants.

Canada's total grain exports for 1972 are estimated at 845 million bushels, up 80 million from 1971.

meeting at the Christopher Inn, Columbus, at 10 a.m. Tuesday, will represent Madison, Union, Pickaway, Fayette and Fairfield counties. The new council, with its base of support in the community, will be able to make decisions on the expenditures of tax dollars, based on a true understanding of local need, thereby being able to make other employment-related programs more responsive and productive.

Stephen D. Kornblatt, executive director of the Ohio Manpower Development Division, noted that until the appointment of the local councils, the spending of the manpower funds had been determined by officials of the U.S. Department of Labor. Recently, the funds have been used for summer youth programs, skill programs for job training, and programs to encourage dropouts to return to school.

Kornblatt said the local council members will not only determine spending of the manpower dollars allotted for each fiscal year, but will shoulder the responsibility of monitoring programs and operations once they are funded.

He added, "It is important to note that the programs which will be funded by the decisions of council will provide job training opportunities for individuals who might otherwise have to turn to the public assistance rolls."

The state manpower area coordinator is Mrs. George (Connie) Green, of Lancaster.

It's up to the conventions

The Supreme Court has resoundingly given national political conventions final authority on who shall be seated as convention delegates. In its eight to one ruling the court found against the contention that, since delegates are chosen through state electoral processes, the states have an overriding interest in this.

Let the real Kissinger stand up

Who and what is Henry Kissinger? Edgar Ansell Mowrer, the grand old man among our foreign correspondents, thinks Henry K. is the 1975 version of Neville Chamberlain, forever commuting to his several Munichs in Moscow, Peking, Cairo, Damascus and wherever. Others persist in regarding him as the modern Metternich, a reincarnation of the Austrian statesman who balanced the power in post-Napoleonic Europe so adroitly that the world managed to avoid major wars for a century.

If it were a choice between Neville Chamberlain and Metternich, I would not hesitate to say that Edgar Mowrer is closer to the truth. There can be no permanent balancing of the power in a revolutionary age. It should be obvious

The state argument has substantial weight. A good case can be made for the claim that the voters' choices must perforce be honored. But a better case rests on the statement, in the majority opinion written by Justice William J. Brennan, Jr., that "the convention serves the pervasive national interest in the selection of candidates for national office, and this national interest is greater than any interest of an individual state." We think the court has made the right decision in a tricky dispute growing out of the 1972 Democratic convention.

to the veriest child that neither Soviet Russia nor Red China has given up on the fundamental Marxist idea that bourgeois governments can be undermined from within where they can't be conquered from without, so how is Henry Kissinger to become the father of a permanent status quo?

To speak thus, however, is not necessarily to write Henry Kissinger off as a wishful dreamer. Looking to the post-Napoleonic Congress of Vienna to explain our peripatetic Secretary of State, I would say that he more closely represents the French plenipotentiary Talleyrand than he does Metternich. It was Talleyrand who, with the weakest of powers behind him, came off with the best deal at Vienna.

Talleyrand was the complete opportunist. He knew he had to exploit the differences that were bound to arise between Russia, Prussia, Austria and Britain, the coalition that had overthrown Napoleon. Talleyrand managed to preserve the boundaries of historic France and to reestablish the principle of legitimacy by putting a Bourbon back on the French throne. He did this although France was in no condition to fight even a war to protect Paris.

Like Talleyrand, Kissinger has few winning cards in his hand. True enough, the U.S. is, technologically, still the strongest power in the world. But the U.S. has lost its will to fight. It has lost its ability to think in strategic terms. It is infested with anti-patriots who are hell-bent on exposing the CIA and pulling whatever teeth may remain in what is derided as the military-industrial complex. Its environmentalists want no forced-draft energy improvements.

War depends on oil and gasoline, and if we were ever embroiled in a major struggle in the Middle East, with thousands of miles of supply lines to maintain and a spread-out industrial machine and suburban society at home to keep humming, we would be such a bad risk that nobody would come to our aid. The real powers in 1975 are those nations that sit on the sources of energy. The Persian Gulf states and Soviet Russia are alike in possessing the big reserves of oil. The U.S. could get by at home with whatever oil it possesses or could obtain from Nigeria, Indonesia, Venezuela and Canada, but it could not keep a military coalition going if the Arabs were to reinstitute a boycott or to sabotage their own wells.

Fortunately, Henry Kissinger is not faced with an oil monolith. Iran, an oil power which is non-Arab, is contending with Saudi Arabia on the one hand, and Iraq on the other, to become the dominant power in the Persian Gulf region. The smaller Persian Gulf states are worried lest Saudi Arabia provoke Iran.

Meanwhile, the Saudis are more feudal than socialist; they may be one with Egypt, Libya and Syria in their opposition to Israel, but they have cast their economic lot with the West by putting their oil money in Swiss, British and American banks and real estate.

Neither Iran nor the Saudis can win a long-term victory if Soviet Russia wins. So, like Talleyrand, Henry Kissinger has room to maneuver. He will not, however, succeed in bringing about a "century of peace" if the U.S. continues to downgrade its military forces and betray the trust of small nations — Taiwan, South Vietnam, Israel — who count on it for aid. If the U.S. sells out its friends, revolutionists will take over.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

The loggers are beating down her door

DEAR ABBY: I am an attractive female divorcee who recently retired after a long, distinguished career as a university English professor.

Now that I have a great deal of free time, I would like to find suitable male companionship.

Although I receive numerous offers (the loggers in this town are practically beating my door down), I don't know how to meet men who could appreciate my best qualities, such as the art of conversation.

There must be some other retired women in small towns with similar problems. Have you any suggestions?

IDLE BUY ANXIOUS IN IDAHO

DEAR ANXIOUS: Enroll in an adult education class and do a lot of listening. Conversation could be considered "dessert," and since man cannot live on dessert alone, are you prepared to provide some meat and potatoes?

DEAR ABBY: I just had to write to defend that woman who writes notes to her husband to remind him of things. I've been doing it for years.

First of all, that letter couldn't have been written by my husband because he doesn't believe in communication, and note-writing is a form of communication.

This wooden Indian I'm married to might send up smoke signals if he could find his lighter, but on the other hand, fires within the city limits of Dallas are frowned upon.

Anyway, I say three cheers for that note-writing wife. I sure wish my husband would write me a note once in a while. It would confirm the fact that he's still breathing.

IGNORED IN DALLAS

DEAR IGNORED: Your problem is far more serious than you realize. The ultimate in humiliation, women confide, is not in being belittled, berated, or even beaten. It's being ignored!

DEAR ABBY: I recently visited a friend in his New York apartment. We hadn't seen each other for 15 years. While he was in the kitchen mixing us drinks, I noticed that he had a splendid library. Then I noticed that he had a few books that I also owned.

I don't know what made me do it, but I took those books down from the shelf and turned to the fly leaves, and sure enough, my name was there!

He had borrowed those books from me years ago, and neglected to return them.

I put them back before he returned, and said nothing. Since then my irritation has grown.

Should I now tell him that I want my books back?

IRKED IN INDIANA

DEAR IRKED: Certainly. No wonder your friend has such a "splendid library." He's a "collector."

DEAR ABBY: This is to encourage the 52-year-old woman whose husband wants a divorce. Let him have it, then sharpen up some of your old skills and get out on your own.

I was 47 when my husband entered his second childhood. He wanted a divorce to marry a younger woman. I fought and wept and begged! I thought my life was over. I finally came to my senses and let him go. At age 48, I went to work as a secretary, married my boss two years later, and couldn't be happier.

A 52-year-old woman can do anything a younger woman can do except maybe have a baby. And what 52-year-old woman in her right mind would want that?

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

The Ninety-fourth Congress began on a somber note this year, as President Ford presented his State of the Union message almost a full week earlier than the traditional January twentieth date for such a presidential report. This is one time I wish I didn't have to agree with Mr. Ford when he said he came to the Congress with some bad news: "The State of the Union is not good."

Our problems with both energy and the economy are worsening and some difficult decisions must be made very soon to prevent them from deteriorating any further. We must, as the President emphasized, put the unemployed back to work, increase real income and production, restrain the growth of government spending, achieve energy independence and advance the cause of world understanding.

To attain these vital goals, the President outlined 25 steps, some which he can accomplish through executive action and many which will require the consent of Congress. With such a heavy democratic majority, working out agreements on what to do with our energy and fiscal problems could prove an extremely difficult task.

What the President can do as Chief Executive — and has promised to do — is veto any new Congressional spending programs, raise import fees on imported crude oil by $3 per barrel by April 1, eliminate regional hardships caused by energy cutbacks, expand oil exploration and production, and remove price controls on domestic crude oil.

The most controversial proposals, however, will require Congressional agreement, among them being the $16 billion tax cut, limitation of federal pay and program increases including Social Security to five per cent, deregulation of natural gas and a 12 per cent investment tax credit. I can tell you from the outset that I cannot support any reduction or curtailment in Social Security increases. We've worked too long and too hard to secure the automatic cost-of-living raises for Social Security recipients precisely because it is often those individuals on fixed incomes who are hardest hit by inflation. I doubt if any Social Security beneficiaries have any notches left in their belts with which to tighten them and I also strongly doubt that Congress would accede to such a request. The proposed tax cut for individual incomes should provide some welcome relief, but the import fees on crude oil will cause energy costs to rise to such an extent that the tax cut will be meaningless. I fear that since 20 per cent of our economy is based on transportation increased fuel costs will only start another inflationary spiral.

Deregulating natural gas is certain to raise the price of this product for the consumer. I would not even consider supporting such a move until the full investigation I requested on natural gas company price and reserve policies has been completed by the Federal Power Commission.

Given the stagnated condition of industry in general, however, I believe the proposed 12 per cent investment tax credit is needed to help stimulate the economy and provide jobs in this difficult time. On the otherhand, rather than a "windfall profits" tax on the oil companies, I believe a price roll back would be better. The outrageous profit margins accrued by the oil companies during last year's embargo are evidence enough that some type of regulation is needed in this area, particularly since there is no evidence these profits were used for new exploration and development of energy sources.

Lowering tax rates for both individuals and business is only one side of the coin. To make them effective, they must be accompanied by more responsible government spending of what tax revenues are available. That is where the true test is yet to come with this new Ninety-fourth Congress, with its unprecedented contingent of liberal oriented freshmen. How they vote on new government spending proposals will greatly affect the economy and our budget deficit in particular.

All in all, this session of Congress promises to be a most interesting one to all concerned.

Ohio, Erie Canal preservation eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 307 miles of the meandering 150-year-old Ohio and Erie Canal are being studied, beginning today, as the first step in preserving the historic waterway.

A team of six National Park Service specialists from the Denver (Colo.) Service Center, accompanied by William E. Birdsall, general superintendent of NPS areas in Ohio, will follow the Canal from its origin at Lake Erie in Cleveland to its end at the Ohio River in Portsmouth.

Birdsall said the group will study the recreational potential of the Canal and the best means of preserving the waterway for public use.

The study is financed by Congress and the National Park Service under a law enacted Oct. 26 directing the secretary of the interior to determine the most feasible and suitable means of preserving and interpreting the historic and natural resources of the Canal, Birdsall said.

The Canal, begun in 1825 and completed in 1833, cost $5 million to build, he said. Displaced by railroads, the Ohio and Erie Canal went out of operation in the late 19th century and has been deteriorating ever since, he added.

The winding Canal is on state-owned land, Birdsall said. In some areas, it has been leased to local companies and communities for industrial and recreational use, he said.

In several locations, such as near Canton and Coshocton, communities have restored segments of the In Valley View, south of Cleveland within the newly created Cuyahoga Valley National Recreation Area, the Canal is a registered national historic landmark, Birdsall said.

The study will provide NPS with background and planning guidelines for a full-scale study, Birdsall said.

Sections of the Canal could be restored with reconstructed canal boats traversing the waters and historical features—such as mills, lockkeeper buildings and locks—restored to working order.

Possibilities for canoeing and boating, bicycle trails on the Canal's tow paths, and picnic areas also will be studied, he said.

Ohio native dies in mishap

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — A retired U.S. Army colonel has been electrocuted when a construction crane he was operating hit a high tension wire in the northern city of San Pedro Sula, authorities said Sunday.

Local press reports said Garret Daniel Comb, a veteran of World War II, was a native of Ohio whose family lives in Houston, Tex.

Officials said Comb, who owned a well-drilling company in San Pedro Sula, died instantly in the accident Friday. Five other persons were reported burned.

The San Pedro Sula newspaper La Prensa said Comb had a Honduran wife.

HORSES HAVE ESP — Horse farmer Ralph Dodd, 71, has over 100 horses in the Redmond, Wash., area. He claims animals have ESP and they can sense what you are thinking.

Heavy snow over eastern U.S.

By The Associated Press
Traveler advisories remain in effect for much of the northeastern section of the country today as snow continues to fall from the eastern portion of the Ohio Valley through the northern and central Appalachians into southern New England.

Heavy snow warnings were issued for portions of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Heavy rain and thundershowers dampened an area extending from New Jersey south through the Middle Atlantic states to the Central Gulf Coast. Thundershowers were also reported along the south Atlantic coast while tornadoes were sighted near Jackson in southeast Louisiana and near Poplarville in southern Mississippi.

Elsewhere clear weather extended from the middle and upper Mississippi Valley through the central and southern Plains into the southwest. Light rain fell along the north Pacific Coast.

High wind warnings were in effect for much of eastern Colorado and the Upper Yellowstone Valley of Montana. Gusts ranging up to 60 miles per hour were expected during the day.

Temperatures early today ranged from 14 at Marquette, Mich., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

Man rides unicycle up, down mountain

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — "Because it was a nice day," pianist James Kibben said when asked why he rode a unicycle up and down Flagstaff Mountain.

Kibben claimed a world record for his 2½-hour, 9.8-mile ride Sunday up the 2,500-foot mountain and back down again. He's challenging all comers to try and outcycle him.

Guinness' Book of World Records has no listing for unicycle riding. But the 27-year-old Rapid City, S.D., native who plays the piano with a local band said he plans to submit his feat to the Guinness publishers.

Kibben said he set out on his jaunt just to see if he could make it up the mountain. Boulder residents say the climb is strenuous on foot.

The Rev. Dale Orihood performed the double-ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carson of 715 Columbus Ave., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carpenter, Jasper Coil Rd.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of sheer nylon organza with simulated pearl crown. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations centered with a white orchid with streamers.

Gary Williamson served as best man. Seating the guests were Donald Carson, brother of the bride, Jeff Scott, Bill Rowe and Jeff Smith.

Mrs. Carson chose for her daughter's wedding an aqua dress with which she combined silver accessories. She had a corsage of aqua carnations with orchid in the middle. The bridegroom's mother wore a peach dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of peach carnations with orchid in the center.

The Eagles Lodge was the setting for the reception which followed. A seven-tier wedding cake decorated with pink roses centered the bride's table. Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. Janice Sheets, sisters of the groom.

German Chocolate Cheesecake Squares, made with unflavored gelatine, is a different and very good variation of the popular dessert. Serve it as a snack, too, with refreshing hot tea for cool weather hospitality.

German chocolate cheesecake

"Cheesecake made with gelatine?" you well may ask. Of course, and when you taste German Chocolate Cheesecake Squares, you'll know why! One picture may be worth a thousand words, but the list of ingredients is worth reading. Sweet cooking chocolate, milk, butter, coconut pecans, pure unflavored gelatine, eggs, vanilla and cream cheese. All good, all natural. And all adding up to a naturally good dessert or snack both family and guests will love.

CHEESECAKE SQUARES

1 bar (4 ounces sweet cooking chocolate
2 cups milk
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup flaked coconut
1 cup finely chopped pecans
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
¾ cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
In small saucepan, melt chocolate with ¼ cup milk over low heat; reserve 1-3 cup. To remaining chocolate mixture, add butter and melt; stir in coconut and pecans. Press onto bottom of 9-inch square baking pan and chill.

In medium saucepan combine unflavored gelatine and ½ cup sugar; blend in egg yolks beaten with remaining 1½ cups milk. Stir over low heat until gelatine dissolves, about 5 minutes; add vanilla.

Beat cream cheese until smooth in large bowl, and gradually beat in gelatine mixture. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon.

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form in small bowl, and gradually add remaining ¼ cup sugar and beat until stiff. Fold into cheese mixture. To 2 cups cheese mixture, blend in reserved chocolate; alternate spoonfuls of chocolate and plain mixtures in prepared pan. Gently marble with knife and chill until firm.

Mrs. Sollars circle hostess

Circle 4 of Grace United Methodist Church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Walter E. Sollars. Mrs. Heber Deer, president, opened the meeting by reading "My Prayer for the New Year." Mrs. William D. Shepard gave devotions from the 136th Psalm. She also read "Three Suggestions Offered for Happiness in the New Year" by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, and "Prayer for the New Year."

Mrs. Robert I. Case, secretary, gave the roll call and read the minutes of the previous meeting. It was stated twenty four calls were made to shut-ins, funeral homes, and hospitals. Mrs. Maurice L. Sollars, treasurer, gave her report. Communications were read from Mrs. W. Elmer Davis, Mrs. John W. Perrill, and Mrs. Roy Sollars expressing thanks for the gifts given to them by the Circle at Christmas. Mrs. Case gave a comprehensive report of Church Day activities and plans. She stated $2424.00 was received from the opening of the 'talent' jars for the church circles. Mrs. Edward Bower announced that she is piecing a quilt to be given to the Church Woman United Clothing Center.

Mrs. Shepard was in charge of the program and read "A Mother Shares a Fortune in Memories," "All very Simple," and closed with a prayer poem. The hostess served delicious refreshments to Mrs. Shepard, Miss Helen Perrill, Mrs. Bower, Mrs. Sollars, Mrs. Deer, Mrs. Case, and Mrs. Millard H. Weidinger.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert I. Case, with Miss Helen Perrill as program chairman. A least coin collection was taken, and members were reminded that dues are payable now.

Crimefighter falls victim

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Sometimes even crimefighters fall victim to crime.
James Beck, an armed guard for a Cincinnati security agency, arrived home after an all-night shift and found himself confronted with a gun-wielding robber.
The man approached Beck, 48, as the guard got out of his car in a parking lot.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In case you avoided TV over the weekend, be advised of two things: No pro football was on (let us pray this becomes a trend) and "The Jeffersons" arrived Saturday night in their own CBS series.

The Jeffersons, first seen as Archie Bunker's neighbors on "All in the Family," are the latest black family in TV comedy this year; the others are in "That's My Mama," "Sanford and Son" and "Good Times."

They also are the season's first middle-class black family on TV, the clan headed by George Jefferson (excellently portrayed by Sherman Hemsley), a shrewd, feisty owner of several dry cleaning stores.

The script for the scheduled opening show dealt with the family's move to a Manhattan apartment building where middle-class folks live.

Virtually all the dealing concerned whether Jefferson's long-suffering wife (Isabel Sanford) should reluctantly accede to her husband's wishes and hire a maid to clean the apartment five days a week.

It started when Mrs. Jefferson, newly installed in the apartment, ran into a black friend who worked as a maid in several of the building's apartments. The friend thought Mrs. J. also was a maid there.

She was set straight, gently by Mrs. Jefferson, then more briskly by Jefferson after she exclaimed to him: "How can you afford to live in a place like this? You ain't tall enough to be no basketball player."

"Say what?" said he.

"Then you've got to be a numbers runner," she insisted.

Ho-ho.

Then came a lot of bickering blather, apparently to show that upward mobility for blacks causes embarrassment for some as they "arrive" in a predominantly white society conditioned to thinking of blacks mainly as maids, butlers, janitors and cooks.

The point was made, but in some pretty wretched dialogue, such as George Jefferson's observation to his wife when she worries about being called "Ma'am" by friends who may wind up working for her.

"Look, some people got to be the ma'ams and the rest are mam-mies," he says.

The show also brought in a neighboring married couple — he was white, she was black — for some attempted chuckles, and heard from Jefferson's mother and Lionel, the Jeffersons' 22-year-old son.

But the only real laugh came at the end as a young black maid, after determining that the neighbor's wife and Mrs. Jefferson both live in the relatively plush building, asked: "Well, how come we overcame and nobody told me?"

It was a good finale for a talented cast saddled with a poor script. Maybe next Saturday's show will improve. I hope it does, for it has both potential and an excellent time slot, arriving right after "All in the Family."

Data processing firm plans to launch training program

Steele Data Processing, Inc., of 240 E. Court St., is working to ease the unemployment situation in Fayette County, according to executive vice president James Steele.

The firm, which is operated by Steele and his wife, Marie, plans to utilize the next few weeks during its slack business period to train additional persons in data preparation and processing. During the two-week training, Steele Data Processing will offer interested persons an opportunity of a job in the data processing field through a "tuition refund" evening course program.

STEELE said the "tuition refund" course would require a $150 tuition to enroll in the course, to be offered from 5:30 until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Saturdays for the two weeks of training with the prospect that successful trainees who remain employed with the local firm for one month or an accumulation of 160 work hours will have the full tuition refunded.

"We need experienced operators and many people need extra money through a supplemental job," Steele said in deciding to institute the two-week course. He added that the course would benefit not only the company but also people unemployed, housewives needing additional income and students out of school or needed a part-time job in the county.

"We have the time in the next three weeks to train people and put them back in the work force with some kind of skill," Steele said, "and we hope that they will remain employed with us."

Persons interested in the training program must be able to type 40 words per minute and successfully complete a personnel test involving questions on logic, math and general vocabulary and grammar skills.

Five lead operators now employed at the firm will be training the qualified applicants for the course. Steele said he is hoping 35 persons will attend the training sessions and complete the program, boosting employment to approximately 100 for the February business rush. The course is expected to begin the last week of January following interviews and completion of personnel testing.

Steele said that although the company is experiencing its annual slack in business currently, the data processing firms are "hard-hit" in February when state departments and large industries need inventories calculated and records updated.

"We deal mostly with state departments," Steele said. "Regardless if the economy is depressed or inflated, the state still needs to have certain information and records."

The Steele Data Processing firm handled over 115,000 work hours in 1974, producing 20 million records for companies in Ohio, Florida, California, Illinois and New York.

The work involved in data preparation includes a variety of jobs from conducting inventories for local and nonlocal industries, updating and indexing state library systems, and servicing payment lists for various public welfare departments," Steele said.

Steele Data Processing Inc. formerly worked in two offices in Washington C.H. and Portsmouth. Steele said the firm shut down the Portsmouth facility due to tremendous turnaround in work requested by clients for too few employees being maintained at the office. However, a second office has been established on Refugee Road in Columbus, where the firm is nearer to many of the customers it is servicing.

THE DUTIES of the Steele Data Processing offices are to supply customers with any type of data preparation. The data entry operations (as they are commonly called) are given certain source documents from the clients. The operators key this information into a mini-computer, which puts the information onto magnetic tapes that can easily be used on company computers.

Steele said the data processing firms are being swamped with business in this computer age because a majority of companies own their own, high-scale computer units but do not have the time to prepare the data for direct input into the computers.

Steele said his firm is gradually advancing into the computer industry from data processing. Steele Data Processing now uses the "inforex" system of keying information into a minicomputer which puts the information onto magnetic tapes — "one of the most updated methods in data processing," he said. "We have to use these machines in order to compete with other firms and stay in business."

Skies were to clear from the west across Ohio today as a high pressure ridge works east. Clouds are to return Tuesday with the approach of another storm now in northwest Canada.

Continuing snow was reported in the southeast corner of the state early today, with a few flurries recorded in other sections.

The combination of cloudy skies and moderate to brisk winds held temperatures across the state generally in the teens with 20s reported near the Ohio River.

A chance of rain or snow Wednesday. Fair Thursday and Friday. Highs in the upper 30s and the 40s Wednesday and in the 30s Thursday and Friday. Lows in the 30s early Wednesday and in the 20s early Friday.

Dog licenses are due today

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners reported Monday that all county dog licenses must have been purchased by that date to avoid paying penalty fines.

Also on the agenda, chairman Ray Warner reported the commissioners were scheduled to meet with Fayette County disaster services director Ralston M. Smith Monday morning to view a county-wide agreement of the disaster program and would conduct the final hearing on the Harry Flint ditch improvement project at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

On the week's calendar, Warner noted that the commissioners would make their annual tour and inspection of county roads and bridges with Fayette County engineer Charles P. Wagner at 1 p.m. Thursday.

Jimmy Carter opens campaign

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter kicks off his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination today with an address to a joint meeting of the Louisiana legislature.

Stops in seven cities in four states were scheduled for the first five days of what Carter said would be a hectic campaign schedule.

Carter completed his term as Georgia's governor last week.

After the Baton Rouge, La., stop, Carter planned to move on to New Orleans, Houston, Tex., Albuquerque and Santa Fe, N.M., and San Francisco and Sacramento, Calif., news secretary Jody Powell said.

Housing to be Rhodes priority?

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Housing will be the No. 1 priority of the new administration of Gov. James Rhodes, Lt. Gov. Richard Celeste predicts.

Rhodes will give housing the attention this term that he gave vocational education in his last term because of the need and because such a campaign would put many of Ohio's workers and productive resources back on the job, Celeste says.

"I am convinced that Jim Rhodes intends to deliver on his inaugural promise to invest half a billion dollars in new residential construction," Celeste told the Ohio Housing Coalition on Saturday.

In remarks prepared for the Akron luncheon, Celeste suggested the governor start by seeking a court test of the new state Housing Finance Act, which authorizes $100 million in bonding annually for housing development.

"Rather than take additional time to try to amend the Ohio constitution as the governor suggested in his inaugural speech, we should move immediately to test this law in our Supreme Court and then to implement it," the Cleveland Democrat said.

As a further step toward getting what he called a "massive residential construction program" moving in the next six to nine months, Celeste proposed consolidating the housing activities of at least five state departments. He said it would be useful to combine the housing responsibilities of the state Environmental Protection Agency, the Board of Building Standards, and the departments of Economic and Community Development, Health and Industrial Relations.

Smoke damage only

The Washington C. H. Fire Department was summoned to the Harry Townsend residence, 718 W. Elm St., when the home filled with smoke Monday morning.

The family had shut the flue on the chimney while coals still glowed in the fireplace.

Smoke filled the residence causing some smoke damage, but there was no fire.

Lions win lackluster ball game, 65-52

BY MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Writer
When playing non-league competition, as was the case with the Washington C. H. Blue Lions last Saturday evening, the game should serve as a breather from the pressure of SCOL play. However, instead of just relaxing the pace of the game, the Lions and the Jackson Ironmen, their opponents for the game, slowed the game's metabolism down to near zero as the sparse crowd stayed awake just long enough to see the Lions win, 65-52.

The one bright spot in the game was the play of 6-foot-3 junior Doug Phillips. The 200 pound forward poured in 20 points and picked off 17 rebounds in the game. All 20 tallies came on field goals.

The hum-drum game consisted of 85 missed shots and 32 turnovers. Also, the field goal percentage of the two schools were horrendous. Court House sank 25 of 65 shots from the floor for only 38 per cent. As bad as that sounds, Jackson did even worse, sinking just 22 of 67 shots for a 33 per cent average.

Perhaps the real reason for the Lion victory was the domination of both the offensive and defensive boards by Washington. They garnered 51 rebounds while the Ironmen could manage only 32 caroms. Phillips led all rebounders with 17.

The other statistics in the game were practically even. Jackson had 14 assists to Washington's nine, and also led in steals, seven to four. Court House had 17 turnovers while the Ironmen gave the ball away on 15 occasions.

In the foul shooting column, Jackson held a slight advantage in percentage but the Blue Lions held a big lead in scoring. Jackson shot 12 times and connected eight for a 75 per cent average. Washington C. H. stepped to the charity stripe 21 times and came away with 15 points for a 71 per cent average.

As the game began, the Lions looked as though they would run up the score on Jackson. Washington scored 21 points in the first quarter while limiting their opponents to only 10. Pacing the scoring in the first canto were Chuck Byrd with nine, and John Denen, Mark Shaw, and Phillips, who scored four each.

After the scoring surge in the first quarter, the Ironmen employed a stickier defense and held off the inside shots effectively. However, Phillips popped in eight points from 20-25 feet and Court House scored another 17 markers.

The Lion defense held the Ironmen's top scorer in check for the first two quarters. Senior Mike McDonald was held to only eight points in the first half. He is the sole starter left from last year's Jackson team when he averaged 16.5 points per contest.

After halftime, the game's excitement started to dwindle until it finally disappeared completely. Eleven points was all that either team could muster with the third quarter of turnovers and missed shots.

In the fourth and final period of play, the officials relieved the boredom; however, they did too much and too often as the teams shot 18 free throws. The last nail was finally put in the coffin of the already dead game and the Lions took a 65-52 win.

Leading the scoring attack for Washington was Phillips with 20 points. Also in double figures were Byrd, the SCOL's top overall scorer, with 19 counters, and Denen, the freshman sensation, with 14 tallies.

Lion head coach Gary Shaffer praised the work of Phillips and Dewey Foster by stating, "Doug played a tremendous game on the boards and I was pleased with the game Dewey played, coming off the bench and scoring six points and helping out with the rebounding."

Jackson landed four starters in double digits for the game. Mark Buchanan led the Ironmen with 13 markers. Complimenting him were McDonald and Steve Morrow, each with 12 points, and Greg Fannin, who scored 11 times.

In addition to Phillips' 17 rebounds, Byrd, Denen, and Foster each collected nine caroms for Court House. Leading rebounders for Jackson were Buchanan and Fannin.

One more non-league game remains on Washington's schedule for 1974-75. This Tuesday evening, the Chillicothe Cavaliers will be in town to be entertained on the Lion hardwood at 6 p.m. The following Friday, the Blue Lions head for Unioto to play the Tanks as they resume SCOL play.

Jackson's next game will be at Athens. They meet Bulldogs next Friday.

Johnny Miller wins Tucson Open

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — He's almost too good to be true.

He's tall, slender, blond and good-looking enough to serve as a male model.

He's polite, courteous and soft-spoken.

He's a non-drinker, a non-smoker, an elder of his church and possessed of a vocabulary in which "heck" and "damn" are the strongest expletives.

And, right now, Johnny Miller may be playing the ancient game of golf better than anyone has every played it before.

His recent accomplishments are the stuff of legends.

"I like setting records," Miller said Sunday after an astonishing, 11-under-par 61 had given him still another runaway victory, this time in the $200,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open golf tournament.

"That's what records are for — to be broken."

"But it's getting to be a problem. When you set records you have to live up to them. I want to keep on improving, keep on progressing. How am I gonna top this? How can I keep on like this?"

Of course, he asked the same questions a week ago, when he won the Phoenix Open with a 260 total, the lowest 72-hole score in 20 years of tournament competition. He was 24 under par for that tournament.

But he found a way to top it. He went 25 under par in winning Tucson, composing an artistic, 11-under-par effort in the final round over the Tucson National Golf Club course, at 7,200 yards one of the longest layouts the touring pros play all year and a course that had been toughened and strengthened this season by the addition of water on three holes.

His total was 263. He won by nine strokes, compared with victory margins of 8, 7 and 14 strokes in his last three previous individual starts.

In completing an unprecedented second consecutive sweep of the two Arizona tournaments, this year the kickoff events on the pro tour, Miller has led or shared the lead in every round and has had scores of 67, 61, 68, 64, 66, 69, 67 and 61 for a season stroke average of 65.4.

"He's phenomenal," said John Mahaffey, a distant second with a closing 67 and 272.

Miller's effort before a national television audience and a massive gallery announced at 38,000 in Sunday's final round was just that — phenomenal.

"Without doubt, it was the greatest round of golf of my life," said Miller, who now has shot 61 — within a single stroke of the lowest competitive round in tour history — on three occasions, including twice within the last two weeks.

"It could have been the greatest round I'll ever shoot," he murmured, a touch of awe in his voice and speaking just above a whisper.

Tom Watson lost the battle for second to Mahaffey by a single stroke. Watson had 67 — 274. Don Iverson holed a 50-60 foot birdie putt on the final hole to tie Mike Hill for fourth at 276. Each had a last round 69.

Billie Jean gives up tour

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Billie Jean King says she has some regrets over quitting the women's tennis tour, but she expects her future work in women's athletics to dull the pain.

"I'm a little sorry to see it end because I'm hitting the ball well again," said the 31-year-old star after dumping Chris Evert 6-3, 6-2 in Sunday's finals here and earning $15,000 in her last regular appearance on the women's pro tour.

Ms. King plans to play only in a few special events and World Team Tennis in the future.

"I've won a lot of Wimbledon and Forest Hills and those have been great," she said of her decade of dominance in the sport, including five Wimbledon and three Forest Hills singles titles.

"But to help tennis and women's tennis in particular has been a great thrill for me. And I've been allowed to have a creativity that I don't think any other person will ever have," she said. "That means more than winning to me."

Jabbar, Bucks rip Portland

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Amidst all the controversy surrounding Portland's rookie center, Bill Walton, and his desire — or lack of same — to play pro basketball, Milwaukee pivotman Kareem Abdul-Jabbar ran a clinic for Walton, a sellout crowd of 10,938 at the Milwaukee Arena and a national television audience on what the pro game is all about.

In one of his finest performances, Abdul-Jabbar poured in 50 points, grabbed 15 rebounds, dished out 11 assists and left little doubt as to who is the dominant force in the National Basketball Association, leading the Bucks to a 122-108 decision over Portland Sunday. The win put Milwaukee over .500 for the first time this season at 22-21.

Abdul-Jabbar was overwhelming, sinking 18 of 30 shots — skyhooks, driving flips, layins, jumpers and taps. He completely outplayed Walton in the first regular season meeting of the former UCLA stars.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, the Atlanta Hawks beat the Seattle SuperSonics 117-109, the Boston Celtics nipped the Philadelphia 76ers 102-100, the Detroit Pistons defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers 100-98, the Phoenix Suns topped the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 113-97 and the Buffalo Braves beat the New Orleans Jazz 117-112.

Abdul-Jabbar did it all in helping the Bucks erase a 14-point first quarter deficit and break away from a 77-77 tie in the third quarter with a 13-2 spurt.

Walton, meanwhile, played 21 minutes in his third game after an 18-game absence, blamed on a heel spur. He scored seven points, had six rebounds and seven assists, but was no match for Abdul-Jabbar.

Afterwards, Walton confirmed he has retained attorney Charles Garry, who has represented the Black Panther Party, but said little else about reports he is trying to break his estimated $2 million pact.

Bowl contest to end professional season

Professional football comes to a close Monday night when the AFC stars meet the top NFC players in the Pro-Bowl game.

The game will be carried on channels 6 and 12 beginning at 9 p.m.

Twenty days into 1975, wives will have their last opportunity to be upset with their husbands over the long 1974 football schedule.

According to game sales, interest in the year-end classic is dwindling. National Football League officials optimistically project a turnout of 50,000 fans at the Orange Bowl, but only 30,000 tickets had been sold by Sunday night.

Several of the games outstanding players have announced that this will be their last football clash.

Willie Lanier of the Kansas City Chiefs will be pulling on a jersey for the last time. Although he is only 29 years old, Lanier announced last spring that it would be his final season of professional football.

He will be retiring from the sport to take an executive position with a tobacco company. The Chief's linebacker said that he sees football as a means to an end, not an end in itself. He has done well so far and plans to leave the sport before he encounters an injury which could remain for a lifetime.

Referring to the players strike this summer, Lanier said he is leaving without regrets or recriminations. "The key word is respect — If the owners learn to respect the players as individuals and as business men, and the players share the same respect for owners, there is no reason things can't be worked out."

Paul Warfield, a former Cleveland Brown and a standout for the Miami Dolphins in their recent surge to stardom, will be playing with the World Football League next year — if there is a WFL in 1975. Miami's Larry Csonka is slated for the rival league, and so is guard Bob Kuechenberg. Several players from other teams are in a similar situation, including Calvin Hill of Dallas.

Merlin Olsen, who will be appearing in his 12 Pro-Bowl in 13 seasons, appears ready to call it a career although no formal announcement has been made. The Los Angeles Rams stellar defensive tackle has been involved in the motion picture industry for several years and indications are that he will pursue this line on a full-time basis.

All-star games are obviously loaded with talent and neither team has a clear-cut advantage. If there is a weakness on either team, it appears to be the quarterbacking of the NFC squad. Jim Hart of St. Louis, the starter, had a fine year, but is not one of football's most noted signal-callers. His backup man, Jim Harris of Los Angeles, was not even a starter for his own team at the beginning of the season. Fran Tarkenton, who was to be the NFC's number two quarterback, bowed out of the contest claiming soreness in his arm.

The AFC looks much stronger with Ken Stabler of Oakland and Bob Griese of Miami sharing the leadership posts. Both have a long history of superb signal-calling behind them.

The AFC may also have a slight edge in the offensive backfield with Buffalo's O. J. Simpson, Denver's Otis Armstrong, Pittsburgh's Franco Harris and Miami's Csonka sharing the running spots.

The NFC will counter with St. Louis' Terry Metcalf, Dallas' Calvin Hill, Los Angeles' Lawrence McCutcheon, and Minnesota's Chuck Foreman, who is perhaps the strongest of the four.

Three Bengals may see action in the game. Wide receiver Isaac Curtis is making his first Pro-Bowl appearance after an exceptional year. Tommy Casanova and Lemar Parish will be part of the defensive secondary. It will be Parish's third appearance.

John Madden, Oakland's coach, will lead the AFC while the Ram's Chuck Knox guides the NFC troops. Madden is returning to defend the Pro-Bowl crown he captured last year when the AFC won 15-13.

Since the two leagues merged in 1969, the AFC has dominated the post season classic and has taken three of last four meetings.

Bartowski top NFL draft pick?

MIAMI (AP) — Steve Bartkowski, a big, strong-throwing quarterback out of the University of California, looms as the hottest commodity in the approaching National Football League draft, and the Baltimore Colts have first grabs.

"We don't feel we need a quarterback, but believe we could use Bartkowski for good trading purposes," said Joe Thomas, Baltimore's general manager, after winning the coin flip for the No. 1 pick over Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys.

Monte Carlo rally hits rough weather

MONTE CARLO (AP) — The Monte Carlo Rally lived up to its reputation of producing the unexpected in a dramatic finale to its opening phase that put a lone Italian Lancia in the lead ahead of a group of darkhorse Fiats.

Four racing stages early Sunday wiped out the rest of the Lancia squad and saw the French Alpine-Renaults, perennial favorites with the Lancies, well down in the overall placings.

There had been little action since the start Wednesday until the competitors hit the mountains behind the Riviera Saturday night. There they met a mixture of fog, snow and torrential rain for worst in the NFL, would have been in the coin flip, but traded their No. 1 pick to Dallas for quarterback Craig Morton.

"I am in contact with four clubs which are interested in landing a quarterback like Bartkowski," Thomas said. "We are trying to rebuild, to get the Colts back into the playoff status they once enjoyed. We feel we should be able to land two front-line experienced players, at least, for this fine quarter-back."

Thomas said the situation was similar to that which existed a few years ago, when he was with the Miami Dolphins and had a chance to pick Mike Phipps, the Purdue quarterback, but actually wanted a top wide receiver. So he traded the choice to Cleveland, and received Paul Warfield in return.

"I hope to have a deal made before the draft," the Baltimore executive said. The draft is scheduled Jan. 28-29 in New York.

Thomas declined to identify the four clubs with whom he is talking, but they are believed to be the Kansas City Chiefs, Washington Redskins, Los Angeles Rams and New York Jets.

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Veteran baseball pitcher Sam McDowell, a native of Pittsburgh, will try out as a non-roster player with the Pirates in spring training.

Reserves swamp Jackson

Landing four starters in double figures, the Washington C. H. Blue Lion reserves carved out a 61-45 win over the Jackson Ironmen junior varsity before the Lion-Ironmen varsity struggle.

Doug Stewart, Scott Johnson, Sam McClendon, and Mark Heiny all hit double numbers Saturday night. Stewart and Johnson led the team with 14 markers each while McClendon and Heiny threw in 12 and 11 tallies, respectively.

Jackson only managed one player in double figures. Steve McGuire led the Ironmen charge with 12 points.

The John Skinner coached Lion jayvees' record now stands at 5-6 while their SCOL record remains 3-4. Their

Miami rips Central Michigan, 102-76

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Darrell Hedric has his Miami of Ohio basketball team's act together. Now he's working on student support for the Redskins, tied for the MidAmerican Conference lead.

In a rare move, Hedric grabbed a public address microphone and talked to the students after Miami's vital 102-76 home victory Saturday over Central Michigan.

"I think this team can go all the way with the help of you students," said Hedric.

Only 3,000 of Miami's student body of 14,000 watched the Redskins, a pre-season selection for sixth place, surge into first place along side Central Michigan. Both are 3-1.

Bowling Green stayed right behind the leaders, pumping its record to 4-2 and keeping Kent State winless 85-69.

Western Michigan (3-2) moved ahead of defending champion Ohio University (2-2) with a 71-66 home decision of the Bobcats.

In non-conference games, Ball State fell at Cleveland State 93-78, Toledo rolled past new member Northern Illinois 85-66 and Eastern Michigan next game will be with Chillicothe at the WSHS gym this Tuesday. Tip-off time will be 6 p.m.

Biddy Basketball

Three Biddy Basketball games were played Saturday at Miami Trace High School. The Jeffersonville sixth grade mauled Good Hope 34-9, while the younger crew from Jeffersonville was defeated 28-17 by Madison Mills. Wilson School downed Bloomingburg, 31-23, in the other Biddy contest.

Three players shared the scoring honors in Jeffersonville's victory. Donald, Lower and Perrill each tallied eight points. Good Hope could do little against their powerful opponent and Foltz was the leading scorer with three.

Madison Mills was led by Armintrout who had 18 of his team's 28 points. Hughes, of Jeffersonville, led his team with nine.

Wilson also had three boys share the high-score honor with Boyer, Grooms and Coil collecting eight points apiece. Larrick for Bloomingburg topped all scorers in the game with 13.

came from behind in the second half to down Wisconsin-Milwaukee 78-71.

Miami, 11-3 for all games, once trailed Central Michigan 33-22 in the first half before rattling the Chippewas with a second-half press.

"Miami made us look bad," conceded Coach Dick Parfitt after Central Michigan's 10-game winning streak disappeared. "We did not get tough in the second half."

For the Redskins, Rod Dieringer supported Chuck Goodyear's 27 points with a career high 22. Hedric says Dieringer is making a difference.

"His fine shooting gives our offense a new dimension," Hedric said of his senior guard averaging 18 points in the last three games.

Even in victory, Hedric said, "I think Central Michigan is playing the best basketball in the conference. And Dan Roundfield (21 points) is the finest college jumper I've ever seen."

Western Michigan polished off Ohio by controlling the boards 42-29, prompting Bobcat Coach Dale Bandy to say: "Western's rebounding was the key. They were very disciplined and forced us to take some tough shots."

MOVING TARGETS — South Vietnamese motorcyclists keep a wary eye turned in direction of enemy sniper fire as they flee down Route 22 from Tay Ninh to Saigon, 25 miles away. Civilians are fleeing the military activity in the area.

Ohio Perspective

No-Fault insurance again in offing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — No-fault automobile insurance, which died in the last legislature, will be offered again in the current 111th General Assembly.

Rep. William Hinig, chairman of the House Insurance Committee, said the new bill will be virtually the same as the one that passed the House but never came out of a Senate committee.

Hinig, D-96, New Philadelphia, said Rep. Donald Weyandt, D-43, Akron, will be the principal sponsor of the new bill.

It is expected to be offered to the legislature this month.

No-fault auto insurance is commonly defined as coverage under which you can collect from your own insurance company for your own injuries, regardless of who is at fault in an accident. Some auto policies are already "no-fault" on coverage for automobile medical payments, comprehensive and collision insurance.

"Fault" coverage now generally concerns bodily injury liability and property damage liability.

If it follows previous legislative offerings, the new bill will force some form of coverage on an estimated 700,000 persons licensed to drive in Ohio who do not now carry liability insurance.

The Ohio Insurance Institute estimates that 10 per cent of the drivers licensed in Ohio do not carry liability insurance. The Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles on Jan. 1 listed approximately seven million persons as licensed to drive in Ohio.

A recent OII insurance guide noted that no-fault auto insurance generally falls into one of three broad categories:

—Total no-fault does away with tort liability, or the right to sue, for damages resulting from an accident.

—Add-on coverage is almost the exact opposite of total no-fault. It retains the right to sue and mandates add-on coverage.

—Modified no-fault generally provides payments of first party benefits by the policyholder's own company regardless of fault, but the policyholder retains his right to sue for injuries in more serious accidents.

The last no-fault auto insurance bill offered in the legislature provided a modified no-fault program.

Americans were aware of economic situation

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If you judge by the consumer attitude surveys, the American people knew long before the present crisis that the economy was deteriorating.

Their replies to questions showed not only an awareness of the dangers in the wage-price spiral and the growing instability of currencies, but a general, poorly defined fear of the future.

These fears were expressed at the very height of prosperity, and so they have been interpreted by some to be the expression of guilt over the too easy accumulation of material goods, and the feeling that punishment would follow.

Nevertheless, many of us didn't appreciate the predicament we were in, didn't realize our fears were being acted out, didn't quite grasp that "it" was here.

The automotive companies knew of marketing forecasts made many months ago that the auto market was going to collapse, but they continued to produce, convinced that they, not events or buyers, made the market.

Their repeated price increases, while perhaps justified by their own rising costs, were hardly justified by the strength of the market. And eventually those increases all but snuffed out its life.

Even now, with many thousands thrown out of work and with inventories piled high, the price incentives offered by manufacturers cannot be classified as price cuts because they are temporary.

Further marketing studies suggest the problem will not pass. The mood of Americans is such that even lower prices won't induce some of them to buy. And, at any rate, many Americans already have bought their new cars; they bought in anticipation of higher prices.

If Detroit miscalculated the situation, so did Americans who went into debt rather than face the reality of declining buying power. Now some of these families have debts to repay and no real income with which to do it.

Rising bankruptcies — the fiscal year ending in June is likely to produce a record number — suggest that retailers, textile manufacturers, stock brokers and a wide list of others also miscalculated.

W.T. Grant Company announced it expects to lose $175 million for the fiscal year which ends Jan. 31. It will have to close some of its stores. Such news is shocking to most Americans. W.T. Grant is an institution, and don't institutions go on forever?

The names of other well known companies can be added to the list of financially pressed and endangered. Their big problem is that they find it difficult to read the future.

The administration does also. It was no secret in August that the country was slipping deeper into recession, but it was another thing to grasp its significance and act on it.

Instead, the administration chose to continue fighting inflation, which no responsible economist will deny was a good move, but it erred by ignoring the menacing growth of the recession.

Now, however, the alarming evidence is being assimilated — by individuals, corporations and government.

Austerity national watchword

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Austerity is the keynote now. Mayors, governors and the President of the United States espouse it. Individuals practice it, and so do corporations.

If there is anything good that can be said of recession it is that it corrects excesses that creep into practice during easier days. It forces a return to the old virtues, if only temporarily.

Newly elected officials throughout the country are calling for less waste. Individuals are cutting back sharply on their use of credit. Corporations are cutting plans to spend on plants and equipment.

While all these practices will be seen as further evidence of a deterioration in the economy, all of them seem to be periodically necessary in order to bring a disarranged state of finances into better order.

Cities had been overspending their tax bases, many state governments were overloaded with help, and the federal government budget was habitually exceeding revenues by billions of dollars.

Individuals, too, were exceeding their budgets, sometimes merely to buy the things of life but too often because easy credit paved the way. That credit burden is now being reduced.

Corporations were producing goods designed to maintain the high rate of consumer spending, knowing all the while it really couldn't go on forever. Detroit discovered that.

As more austerity is practiced, the rise in consumer prices is almost certain to slow, although actual price cuts are far less likely. Interest rates already are dropping, as loan demand recedes.

But, as Americans remember from other periodic recessions, austerity also can be a painful corrective. Unemployment in December exceeded 7 per cent and is almost certain to approach 8 per cent this spring.

Some economists are revising their forecasts made just a few weeks ago, and almost all the revisions are downward. Some suspect that the consensus of an upturn by late summer may be too optimistic.

The anticipated decline in plant and equipment spending, for example, is seen by some, including James Pate, assistant secretary of commerce, as bad news for the second half of the year.

The bidding:
North East South West
Pass Pass 2 ♣ 5 ♥
6 ♥ Pass 7 ♣

Opening lead—five of diamonds.

This highly dramatic hand occurred in the Women's Championship of the 1968 World Olympiad in the match between Canada and the United States. The bidding was hectic at both tables. When the U.S. held the North-South cards at table one, Mrs. Hayden opened with a forcing two club bid and West (Mrs. Begin) went directly to five hearts in an effort to jam the North-South lines of communication.

But Mrs. Hawes, greatly impressed with her high-card values opposite a forcing two bid, cuebid hearts to suggest the possibility of either a small or grand slam. Mrs. Hayden obliged by leaping to seven spades, which became the final contract. (Seven notrump would have been safer, looking at all four hands, but Mrs. Hayden couldn't tell whether six hearts represented a void in hearts or the ace.)

West led a diamond and declarer took the obvious 13 tricks for a score of 1,510 points.

At the second table, with Canada now North-South, the bidding went:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♣	6 ♥
Pass	Pass	6 ♣	—

West (Mrs. Baron) bid six hearts over two clubs and thus posed an extremely difficult problem for both of her adversaries. North made a forcing pass and South got to six spades instead of seven.

This contract went down four! Mrs. Baron chose the deuce of hearts as her opening shot. East (Mrs. Walsh) ruffed and returned a low club.

Declarer went up with the ace, expecting to win the rest of the tricks, but West ruffed and led another heart for East to ruff. When East then played the king and another club, South found herself going down four for a team loss of 1,710 points.

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Hypnosis for Stammering

We don't know how to break our son's habit of stammering. Friends have even suggested acupuncture and hypnosis. Do you know if any cures have been reported with the use of these methods?

Mrs. F.V.F., Mass.

I must immediately separate the valuable tool of hypnosis from the speculative ideas about acupuncture for the treatment of this problem.

Many people, with and without knowledge, suggest acupuncture as the "last resort for the treatment of any physical or emotional problem. For the correction of stammering, the suggestion that acupuncture be used is ridiculous.

Hypnosis is now accepted as one of the most important methods for the treatment of stammering. Yet hypnosis for your son should not be recommended until a complete study is made of his physical and emotional status.

The art and science of modern speech therapy has produced excellent techniques for the diagnosis of speech defects.

Special methods of controlled feedback, psychological studies, and electronic speech evaluators contribute to this diagnosis.

In the absence of physical defects, there are many excellent methods for correcting the problems. If, in addition to these methods, hypnosis is suggested, the combined treatment can produce dramatic results.

Picketing continues at Lebanon

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Picketing was expected to continue outside Lebanon businesses today protesting the firing of 18 city employees last month.

"We supported the businesses, now we want them to support us," said Bruce Wood, one of the city electrical workers who was dismissed.

Wood predicted that picketers from throughout southwestern Ohio would join the demonstration.

"We'll have people at the city entrances and everywhere," said Wood. An estimated 75 to 200 picketers marched Saturday. There were no incidents reported.

The protest stems from the city employees' bid to affiliate with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW). The city refused to recognize the union and the employees struck.

The men were fired under the Ferguson Act, which prohibits strikes by public workers.

The picketing has the approval of the AFL-CIO Regional Council for Butler, Warren and Clinton counties.

James Kilbane, international representative of the IBEW said he has made a formal request to the Teamsters union for support.

If the Teamsters join the controversy, the city of 8,000 could find itself without truck deliveries, Kilbane said.

Mortgage money said flowing again

DALLAS (AP) — Enough mortgage money is being pumped into the housing industry to bring it out of a major slump before the middle of this year, says the president of the National Association of Home Builders.

"I'm encouraged that money is flowing back to savings and loan institutions. When enough mortgage money gets back to lenders, the housing industry will come back quickly, maybe by mid-spring," Lewis Canker of Atlanta said in an interview Sunday.

The organization, which lists 77,000 members, is holding its annual convention-exposition here this week.

Canker said he believes the housing slump has hit its low point and the bad times might persist for only another 75 days.

"If I were in the market for a house and had wanted one for a long time, I think I would go ahead and make the best deal I could for one," he said.

Canker said the mood of the convention is that something must be done quickly to turn the housing industry around. He said its No. 1 problem is "a crisis in consumer confidence."

"People don't feel secure enough to go out and buy a house," he said. "A daily dose of disaster headlines is enough to strike fear into anyone. What we need is some good news."

Vandervort, 16, Sabina, skidded on ice on Sollars Road, one-tenth of a mile west of Old Charleston Road, and spun into a telephone pole owned by Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and a fence belonging to Russell McCoy, Sabina. Judge Evelyn W. Coffman sentenced Shafer to a one to 10 year prison term, but suspended the sentence in favor of a short jail term and probation. He will serve three months in the Fayette

School aid strikes snag

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A highly publicized bill allocating a $91.3 million budget surplus to public schools may not have such smooth sailing in the legislature after all.

Hearings on the proposal, which open tonight in the Senate Finance Committee, are expected to bring forth skeptics who reportedly feel the schools money problems can await the attention of the state's upcoming two-year budget bill. It will finance state operations, including schools, in the biennium starting July 1.

In the House, where an identical bill has been introduced to speed deliberations, hearings beginning Tuesday morning before the Finance Appropriations Committee.

House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, is among those taking a cautious second look at the emergency legislation designed to pump $40-per-pupil more into each Ohio district, probably around mid-March.

He said reports from the state auditor's office show no school districts in danger of closing for lack of operating funds during the remainder of the school year. He also noted that the districts are authorized to borrow against future appropriations should the need arise. "I'm not so sure this needs to be rushed through," Krufess said.

It was not clear how House Republicans, should they abide by a Kurfess move to block the bill, would align their position with that of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes. He vowed during his campaign last fall that the money would be given to the schools or "returned to the taxpayers," if he had his way.

Some observers wondered whether Rhodes might be having second thoughts. They noted the pledge was missing from his inaugural address, even though Rhodes used the surplus to bolster his campaign claim that former Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan mismanaged the state's fiscal affairs.

Irish truce restoration sought

"The process of salvaging the ceasefire has now begun, but much more groundwork has to be done," said the Rev. William Arlow of the Church of Ireland, who sat in as an observer at the first peace parley Sunday.

The Rev. Stanley Worrall, a Methodist with access to IRA leaders, said: "We are fairly convinced that the ceasefire ended by accident rather than by design. We think it was through lack of communication and we believe that both sides wanted to keep it going."

They were among the Protestant clergymen who helped negotiate the IRA's Christmas ceasefire that ended last Thursday.

The meeting Sunday brought together high-ranking British civil servants and two members of Sinn Fein, the political arm of the IRA's Provisional faction. The meeting was held in a house in a Belfast suburb and the Sinn Feiners were Maire Drumm and Billy McKee.

As they talked, more than 25,000 Irishmen on both sides of the border prayed publicly for peace. An estimated 12,000 attended a service at Belfast City Hall led by Protestant and Roman Catholic clergymen. In the Irish Republic, about 15,000 persons gathered around the main Dublin post office for prayers.

The Ulster Defense Association and other private Protestant armies in Northern Ireland accused the British of betraying the province's Protestant majority.

"We have now reached the point of survival or extinction," the UDA said in a statement. "We intend to survive. We intend to destroy the enemy and all those who support it."

Merlyn Rees, Britain's secretary of state for Northern Ireland, insisted that his representatives made no deal with Sinn Fein or the IRA. He said there must be a "genuine and sustained" cessation of violence before he could end internment without-trial and remove British troops from Northern Ireland. Rees last week freed about 50 of more than 500 IRA men who are interned, but the guerrilla army said this was not enough to get it to continue the ceasefire.

Patrick Toner, a 7-year-old boy tending his father's cows, was the first victim of the guerrilla war since the ceasefire. One of the cows he was driving home Sunday stepped on a mine near the border village of Forkhill. The explosion killed the boy and three of the cows.

The child's death raised the official toll in Northern Ireland's religious warfare to 1,144 since August 1969.
